Maryland Agricultural Education Foundation, Inc.

For over 25 years the Maryland Agricultural Education Foundation (MAEF) has provided educators an innovative, hands-on education programs designed to increase their students' performance in all academic areas while meeting state standards and educational goals. Thousands of educators have received quality agricultural lessons as tools for teaching core subjects such as science, math, language arts, and history. MAEF also awards teacher grants, college scholarships, and conducts public outreach activities statewide to further enhance the understanding of today's food and fiber system.

MAEF offers educational programs in all grade levels Pre-K through Post-Secondary. These programs are executed in a variety of ways such as the 4 Mobile Science Labs that visit elementary schools, the Ag in the Classroom Teacher Training Workshops, the Leopold Project, Farm Based Educators, high school Ag programs, Maryland FFA, as well as many other programs. MAEF also provides general outreach with our two mobile Maryland Agriculture Showcases that travel around the state to various events, festivals, and fairs.

For more information on these programs and MAEF's outreach efforts please visit www.maefonline.com

The Bricks for Ag Education is a campaign to help raise funds for MAEF's outreach efforts. The personalized bricks are installed at the entry of the Senator William H. Amoss Agricultural Center, showcasing the support of individuals, businesses, memorials, personal recognition, and organizations.
